

Every day's a school day!

Our Sales and Marketing Manager, Simon Bravington, is heading back to the classroom to study for his GAI (Guild of Architectural Ironmongers) Diploma - a highly regarded course in the Architectural Ironmongery trade.

Simon comes from the timber door manufacturing sector where he worked for over 20 years and he wants to learn more about the Architectural Ironmongery trade; the GAI qualification will give him a broad understanding of the industry to enable him to assist customers when specifying our products.

Simon will be studying for 3 years and we wish him every success and are sure he will soon be a GAI Diploma holder joining several of our other staff who already have the qualification.
