

Finger guard sales at an all-time high

There have been several stories in the press lately regarding finger entrapment in doors including one where a child had caught their finger in a door whilst at a boarding school and this has raised awareness of the need for finger protection in public places.

Our FP200 Finger Protector was one of the first devices available and continues to be the best seller.

We now have a complete range of finger protection devices for almost every situation, our knowledgeable staff can help specify the most suitable product from the range.
